The matter before the Court is Plaintiff Dacotah Bank's complaint seeking a determination that its liens against a portion of the proceeds from the chapter 7 trustee's sale of certain items of personal property are senior to Defendant Aberdeen Federal Credit Union's liens against those proceeds. II.

This Court has subject-matter jurisdiction over civil proceedings "arising under title 11," "arising in a case under title 11," or "related to a case under title 11." GAF Holdings, LLC v. Rinaldi (In re Farmland Industries, Inc.), 567 F.3d 1010, 1017 (8th Cir. 2009) (quoting 28 U.S.C. § 157(b)(1), (c)(1)). Such civil proceedings may be either "core" or "non-core." Id. (citing Specialty Mills, Inc. v. Citizens State Bank, 51 F.3d 770, 773 (8th Cir. 1995)).

Core proceedings are those "arising under" title 11 or "arising in" a case under title 11. Id. (citing 28 U.S.C. § 157(b)(1)). Such proceedings "arise only in bankruptcy or involve a right created by federal bankruptcy law." Specialty Mills, 51 F.3d at 773 (citing Wood v. Wood (In re Wood), 825 F.2d 90, 97 (5th Cir. 1987)).

They include, but are not limited to:

- (A) matters concerning the administration of the estate;
- (B) allowance or disallowance of claims against the estate or exemptions from property of the estate, and estimation of claims or interests for the purposes of confirming a plan under chapter 11, 12 or 13 of title 11 but not the liquidation or estimation of contingent or unliquidated personal injury tort or wrongful death claims against the estate for purposes of distribution in a case under title 11;
- (C) counterclaims by the estate against persons filing claims against the estate;
- (D) orders in respect to obtaining credit;
- (E) orders to turn over property of the estate;
- (F) proceedings to determine, avoid, or recover preferences;
- (G) motions to terminate, annul, or modify the automatic stay;
- (H) proceedings to determine, avoid, or recover fraudulent conveyances;
- (I) determinations as to the dischargeability of particular debts;
- (J) objections to discharges;
- (K) determinations of the validity, extent, or priority of liens;
- (L) confirmations of plans;
- (M) orders approving the use or lease of property, including the use of cash collateral;
- (N) orders approving the sale of property other than property resulting from claims brought by the estate against persons who have not filed claims against the estate;

(O) other proceedings affecting the liquidation of the assets of the estate or the adjustment of the debtor-creditor or the equity security holder relationship, except personal injury tort or wrongful death claims; and

(P) recognition of foreign proceedings and other matters under chapter 15 of title 11.

28 U.S.C. § 157(b)(2). The debtor or the trustee is almost always a party to a core proceeding. See Abramowitz v. Palmer, 999 F.2d 1274, 1277 (8th Cir. 1993) (citing Marine Iron & Shipbuilding Company v. City of Duluth (In re Marine Iron & Shipbuilding Company), 104 B.R. 976, 980 (D. Minn. 1989) ("In general, a core proceeding is a legal dispute between parties in interest to a bankruptcy case, one of whom is almost always the debtor.")).

Non-core, "related to" proceedings, on the other hand, do not involve a substantive right created by federal bankruptcy law and could exist outside a bankruptcy case. Specialty Mills, 51 F.3d at 773-74 (citing Wood, 825 F.2d at 97). However, such proceedings must have some effect on the administration of the bankruptcy estate. Id. at 774 (quoting therein Dogpatch Properties, Inc. v. Dogpatch U.S.A., Inc. (In re Dogpatch U.S.A., Inc.), 810 F.2d 782, 786 (8th Cir. 1987)(quoting therein Zweygardt v. Colorado Nat. Bank, 52 B.R. 229, 233 (Bankr. D. Colo. 1985))).

[T]he test for determining whether a civil proceeding is related to bankruptcy is whether the outcome of that proceeding could conceivably have any effect on the estate being administered in bankruptcy . . . An action is related to bankruptcy if the outcome could alter the debtor's rights, liabilities, options, or freedom of action . . . and which in any way impacts upon the handling and administration of the bankrupt estate.

Id. (quoting therein Dogpatch, 810 F.2d at 786). A third-party dispute that does not affect either the distribution of estate assets or the bankruptcy estate in general is not "related to" a bankruptcy. Digeo, Inc. v. Chang (In re IPDN Corp.), 352 B.R. 870, 877 (Bankr. E.D. Mo. 2006) (citing Educational Credit Management Corp. v. McAlpin (In re McAlpin), 263 B.R. 881, 884 (B.A.P. 8th Cir. 2001) (citing Specialty Mills, 51 F.3d at 774)).

Parties to a civil proceeding may not consent to subject-matter jurisdiction or waive the lack of subject-matter jurisdiction.

The federal courts' limited jurisdiction is a creature purely of statute. A federal court either has jurisdiction under statute, or it does not. A federal court may not exercise decision-making authority absent a basis in statute. Parties to a lawsuit may not consent or acquiesce to a federal court's jurisdiction where there is no such basis.

Holmes v. Deutsche Bank National Trust Company (In re Holmes), 387 B.R. 591, 597 (Bankr. D. Minn. 2008)(citations therein). Moreover, the Court has an independent duty to determine whether it has subject-matter jurisdiction. FW/PBS, Inc. v. City of Dallas, 493 U.S. 215, 231 (1990). If it determines it lacks subject-matter jurisdiction, the Court must dismiss the civil proceeding. Fed.R.Bankr.P. 7012.¹

III.

This adversary proceeding does not "arise under" title 11. Adversary proceedings "arising under" title 11 "involve a cause of action created or determined by a statutory provision of title 11." GAF Holdings, 567 F.3d at 1018 (quoting Wood, 825 F.2d at 96). By its complaint, Bank is seeking, in its own words, a determination under the Uniform Commercial Code, as codified in the South Dakota Codified Laws, that its liens against the funds paid to Credit Union are superior to those of Credit Union against the same funds. Bank's cause of action does not implicate any provision of title 11.

This adversary proceeding does not "arise in" a case under title 11, either. Adversary proceedings "arising in" a case under title 11 involve "claims that by their nature, not their particular factual circumstance, could only arise in the context of a bankruptcy case." Id. (quoting Stoe v. Flaherty, 436 F.3d 209, 218 (3rd Cir. 2006)) (emphasis added). At first blush, Bank's complaint to determine the priority of its liens would appear to be such a claim under 28 U.S.C. § 157(b)(2)(K). However, Bank's dispute is with Credit Union, not Debtors or the chapter 7 trustee, as evidenced by the fact neither Debtors nor the chapter 7 trustee were named as defendants in this adversary proceeding, and the dispute is over funds that have been paid over to Credit Union and are thus no longer property of Debtors or the bankruptcy estate.² This renders § 157(b)(2)(K) inapposite.

The fact that [an] action is a section 157(b)(2) "core proceeding" does not end the matter[,], however. Generally, in order for federal subject[-] matter jurisdiction to obtain in a bankruptcy case, the dispute must be in some way connected to property of the debtor or the debtor's estate. Whether characterized as a civil proceeding arising under Title 11 or a case under Title 11 or as a related case, the bankruptcy court may not exercise jurisdiction over claims which involve neither the debtor as a party nor assets or liabilities of the debtor's estate.

Minstar, Inc. v. Plastech Research, Inc. (In re Arctic Enterprises, Inc.), 68 B.R. 71, 76 (D. Minn. 1986) (citations omitted).

Finally, this adversary proceeding is not "related to" a case under title 11. "Related to" jurisdiction is extremely broad, GAF Holdings, 567 F.3d at 1019 (citing Continental Nat. Bank v. Sanchez (In re Toledo), 170 F.3d 1340, 1345 (11th Cir. 1999)), but it is not limitless. "[B]ankruptcy courts have no jurisdiction over proceedings that have no effect on the debtor." Celotex Corporation v. Edwards, 514 U.S. 300, 308 n.6 (1995) (quoted in GAF Holdings, 567 F.3d at 1019). Nothing in the pleadings or the parties' stipulated facts suggests the outcome of this adversary proceeding could have any conceivable effect on Debtors or the bankruptcy estate.

Because this adversary proceeding does not "arise under" title 11, "arise in" a case under title 11, or "relate to" a case under title 11, the Court does not have subject-matter jurisdiction and must enter an order dismissing it.
